Small Steps to Healthy Living.

Balancing healthy eating with physical activity can be hard – especially while trying to balance family, school and work. Here are some small steps to help families put healthy eating and physical activity into their day:

<tr>
<td>Eat a healthy breakfast. This helps children perform better in school. Tip: Choose cereals with less than 10 grams of sugar per serving, use skim or 1% low fat milk and add fresh fruit.</td>
<td>Eat a fruit or vegetable at lunch. These are good for you and can help satisfy your hunger. Tip: Cut up vegetables at the start of the week or have a bowl of fruit available on the kitchen counter.</td>
<td>Avoid food traps. Feeling very hungry after work or school may lead to food traps, like stopping at a fast food restaurant. Tip: Keep healthy snacks, like 100 calorie packs or fresh fruit, in your bag or car.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Get Up and Move. Start the day with physical activity. If you do, you are more likely to stick to the plan. Try walking to school with the kids or an exercise video at home.</td>
<td>Find small ways to be more active. Take the stairs, walk at lunch, park further away, and get up and move every hour. Every minute counts!</td>
<td>Activity Counts. Aim for 30 to 60 minutes of activity each day. That’s just a bit more than 1 minute each half hour. Get your minutes by family walks, lifting weights or being active indoors.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Set a Daily Healthy Goal. Make it specific and realistic. For example, “Today I am going to walk 15 minutes during lunch and after dinner.”</td>
<td>Keep Track of Your Progress. Write down your goal(s) each week where your family can see them.</td>
<td>Reset your goals. When you meet short-term goals for a healthy lifestyle, try another one. Variety is the spice of life.</td>

Fitness Feature: Walking

Walking is great exercise for the whole family, and if done regularly may lower the chance of getting type 2 diabetes.

Simple tips to help motivate the family to walk:

- Make family walks a routine. Invite the neighbors along for fun.
- Find parks in your area. Park trails can make walking even more enjoyable.
- Use landmarks like houses or mailboxes as mini-goals during your walk. Set goals like walking further (twice around the block) or walking faster.
- Wear comfortable walking shoes. They can help to avoid injury.
- Use a pedometer to record your steps, time, or miles along the way.

Fitness Tip from a HEALTHY Parent

We do fun things with our kids, like going for walks at parks and outdoor tracks. We encourage them to set a goal of walking or running for a set amount of time.

Voices from HEALTHY Student Leaders Across the Country

- “Before HEALTHY came to our school, we just played the same old things in PE. Since HEALTHY I have seen a difference. HEALTHY helps us get up and move. From now on I am going to try to stay healthy and be more active.”
- “I like HEALTHY because it has great activities and it’s fun”
- “I like HEALTHY because it encourages us to eat healthy and be healthy. HEALTHY has really helped kids in my school. It should be in every school.”

HEALTHY Program Update
Welcome back 8th graders! This fall the focus is Energy Balance – finding the right balance for food and physical activity choices. In the spring we will turn our attention to Strength, Balance, and Choices for Life – helping us make healthy eating and active lifestyle choices throughout our lives.

Southwestern Chicken
Makes 6 servings
Prep/Cook Time: 30 Minutes

Ingredients:
